

Copyleaks is Hiring

Data Scientist

This is a full time position. Flexibility to work remote.
Our office is located in Kiryat Shmona office.

Our rapidly expanding platform for plagiarism detection and content authentication needs an experienced data scientist. We are looking for someone who will take our AI algorithms to the next level and add deeper string processing capabilities to our platform.

Responsibilities

- Implement complex features.
- Works with other departments to participate in specification, design, code, and test reviews.
- Evaluate problems to develop solutions relating to computer software.
- Contributes to project planning and project management.
- Interacts with all internal and external sources necessary to successfully complete assignments.
- Create and present findings, solutions, and demos.
- Performs other duties as assigned.

Requirements

- BS.c / BA in Computer science or Software Engineering.
- Relevant Master's degree – Advantage.
- Professional experience with Machine-Learning.
- Professional experience with Deep-Learning.
- Professional experience in research and development of strings processing algorithms.
- Familiarity with NLP.
- 3+ years of professional experience with Python.
- Familiarity with Linux.
- Experience working with Pytorch.
- You're ready to work hard while doing great things.

To apply, send your CV to jobs@copyleaks.com